

Department of Economics
University of Utah
260 S. Central Campus Drive, Rm. 343
Salt Lake City, UT 84111

Office: 801.581.7481
Mobile: 603.969.9327
Fax: 801.585.5649
nathaniel.cline@economics.utah.edu

Nathaniel Cline

Education

2007-2012 Ph.D. Economics, University of Utah

2001-2005 B.A. Economics, Earlham College

Dissertation *Three Essays on Applied International Macroeconomics
Causes of Growth and Stagnation in the 19th Century U.S.*
Chair: Matías Vernengo

Research

Peer Reviewed

"The persistence of mainstream economics in policy advice" with Matias Vernengo and Kirsten Ford. Journal of Philosophical Economics. Vol III, Issue 2 Spring 2010.

"An Aristotelian view of Marx's method" with Kirsten Ford and William McColloch. Under review, Rethinking Marxism.

Book Chapters

"The Economic History of Inequality" with Thomas N. Maloney. Handbook of Modern Economic History, Robert Whaples and Randall Parker eds. Forthcoming, 2012.

Working Papers

"From Periphery to Center: The US Balance of Payments in the 19th Century."

Papers in Progress

“A Model of Endogenous Fiscal Crises” with Kirsten Ford and Matias Vernengo.

“Center-Periphery Interest Rate and Commodity Price Cycles in the 19th Century.”

“Explaining the Great Moderation: Distributional and Pass-Through Effects.”

“From Above or Below? A ‘Natural Experiment’ in the Economics of Political Institutions” with Ethan Doetsch.

Conference Presentations

“Explaining the Great Moderation: Distributional and Pass-Through Effects.” Eastern Economic Association Conference. Spring 2012.

“From Periphery to Center: The US Balance of Payments in the 19th Century.” Eastern Economic Association. Spring 2012.

“From Above or Below? A ‘Natural Experiment’ in the Economics of Political Institutions” with Ethan Doetsch. Western Social Science Association Conference. Spring 2011.

"Jacksonian Price Movements: An Alternative View." Eastern Economic Association Conference. Spring, 2011.

"An Aristotelian view of Marx's method" with Kirsten Ford and William McColloch. Eastern Economic Association Conference. Spring, 2011

"Thorstein Veblen's Inquiries: A Marxist Starting Point." with Kirsten Ford and Bill McColloch. Western States Graduate Workshop. Fall 2010.

"Because I said so: The persistence of mainstream policy advice" with Kirsten Ford and Matias Vernengo. Eastern Economic Association Conference. Spring 2010.

Teaching Experience

University of Utah

American Industrial and Economic Development. Instructor.
Fall, 2010 - Spring, 2012.

US Economic History. Instructor.
Fall 2008 - Summer, 2011.

Principles of Microeconomics and Macroeconomics. Teaching Assistant.
Fall, 2007 - Spring, 2008.

Westminster College

Economics as a Social Science (Learning Communities). Instructor.
Fall, 2011

Taught in concert with Introduction to Ethics.

Economics as a Social Science. Instructor
Fall, 2010 - Summer, 2011.

Macroeconomics. Instructor.
Spring, 2012.

Service

Chair, Economics Graduate Student Advisory Committee, University of Utah, 2009–2010.

Chair, Heterodox Economics Student Association, University of Utah, 2008-2009

Honors, Awards, & Fellowships

Graduate Assistantship Award, University of Utah, 2007- 2010.

E.K. Hunt Award for Best Paper in Political Economy, University of Utah, 2009.

References

Matías Vernengo
University of Utah
matias.vernengo@economics.utah.edu

Thomas Maloney
University of Utah
maloney@economics.utah.edu

Rudiger Von Arnim
University of Utah
rudiger.arnim@economics.utah.edu